Todd Pelletier is a Senior Vice President and General Manager for Concur Technologies, a division of SAP SE. Concur is one of the world's largest SaaS providers, and Pelletier has been instrumental in growing the company from infancy to its globally dominant position. Another 25-year industry veteran, John McCue spent his career in financial services, much of that time with AIG (American International Group). McCue served in a number of executive management roles at AIG's Transatlantic Reinsurance division and the parent company's headquarters in New York.

After earning a law degree, McCue joined Verisk Analytics, the world's largest holder and provider of data, as its Chief Marketing Officer and Executive Vice President. McCue expanded Verisk's client base into the banking, retail, automotive, and government agency markets. Now retired, he is actively involved in numerous community organizations.

Phelan is a Board Director of TE Connectivity (formerly Tyco Electronics) and is Chairman of the Management Development and Compensation Committee. He is also a board member of Indivior, a member of the advisory board of G&W Laboratories, and is a member of Rutgers University's Board of Trustees.
